

Lost in Prague

From the 26th to the 29th of October our class and some other classes went on a school trip to Prague. Our geography teacher organized the trip and she invited four other teachers to help her look after us.

To get to our destination for the trip, we went by bus and we stopped in Bratislava to visit its amazing city center and its beautiful cathedral. After our teacher told us a lot of information about the places, she let us explore the crowded streets of Bratislava. We stopped at a cafe to “recharge our batteries” for the exhausting day we were going to have and then we went to buy some souvenirs for our families.

On our way to Prague, the Geography teacher informed us about the fascinating history of the Czech Republic, the importance of its placement and so much more.

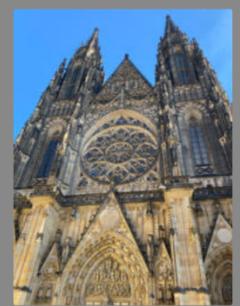

After a long but fun bus ride, we finally arrived in Prague and we were about to explore our home for the next 2 days. Although we were tired, the fact that we were going to see some lovely monuments gave us the strength to go further on our journey. As soon as we finished visiting the Astronomical Clock we were allowed to go get something to eat and have a walk along the magical streets of the city center.

That was when our adventure started. We wanted to try the popular chimney cake with ice cream but we couldn't find any shops that caught our attention. We were so busy trying to find a place that met our expectations so we didn't realize we went too far from our meeting place. We were so scared...we got lost. Our emotions took control of our minds so we couldn't remember anything from what our teachers explained us to do in this situation. “Try to use your phones if you get lost!” she said, that quote popped up in our mind. We tried to google the way back but one of our phones was dead and the other one couldn't access the internet. As we were frenetically walking through the confusing city we spotted one of the monuments the Geography teacher told us about and remembered the way back based on her indications. After this long day full of emotions we finally arrived at the hotel to get some rest and prepare for the next day.

As soon as the sun rose, we were ready to have an amazing time again in Prague. We started the day by discovering the fascinating secrets of Loreta's buildings. Then we walked a long way to Charles Bridge which was mesmerizing. After that we saw the most breathtaking castle, The Prague Castle. And that was another great day in Prague full of amazing experiences.

Eventually, we had to leave and head back home. We were really blue that this adventure came to an end.

Although it was exhausting, all in all it was a beautiful journey that we are very grateful for. And now, the only thing left to do is looking forward to other experiences like this.
